Opening or Investing in a Restaurant in Detroit, Michigan

By: Christopher Liedel, May 22, 2020

Introduction

Detroit, the historic “Motor City,” is a major metropolis with a vibrant downtown district and interesting neighborhood communities. It hosts some of the world’s best hospitals, universities, museums, restaurants, sports arenas, music and theater events in the United States.

Affordable real estate and a talented workforce in combination with the business incentives available in designated opportunity zones, makes Detroit a great place for entrepreneurs and investors alike to call home.

For the start-up restaurateur or the seasoned investor, a first understanding of the big picture is a must. What are the popular dining establishments and how do they rank? What are the most promising neighborhoods for development or investment regarding unmet demand and competition? This project will address these questions and begin to point a way for stakeholder decisions toward maximizing success.
